Gregory Raskin is the Senior Vice President of Technology Development at Memorial Sloan Kettering. He leads a team of professionals who work within the Office of Technology Development's (OTD) three units: Technology Management and Commercialization, Contracts, and Operations and Finance.

Prior to joining Memorial Sloan Kettering in 2012, Greg was a Vice President at AllianceBernstein LP, where he led healthcare and life sciences investing for the firm's $200 million venture capital fund. His previous experience includes serving as a biotech analyst at Baker Brothers Investments, and as a management consultant at McKinsey & Company, where he worked mainly with pharmaceutical and biotech companies.

Greg received a medical degree in 1998 and a bachelor's degree in molecular biophysics and biochemistry in 1994, both from Yale University. From 1998 to 1999, Greg was a resident physician in the internal medicine department of New York University Medical Center. He is a licensed physician in New York State.
